ABOUT THE ARTIST

We extend our sincere appreciation to Rod Arbogast for the endearing depictions of Norwich Terriers that grace our front and back cover of Celebrate Pedigrees 2000. If you would like to know more about Mr. Arbogast please read on.

Rod Arbogast, Wildlife Artist
1629 Pennsylvania Street
Allentown, PA 18102
(610) 432-0771

The artistic ability of Rod Arbogast is far more than the bachelor of fine arts he holds. He combines his ability to paint with his interest in and deep appreciation for wildlife. He is a professional artist who has been painting full time since 1976, and has taught wildlife art at the Baum School of Art in Allentown, PA.

He photographs his subjects and often will take over 10,000 slides a year. He researches his subjects and studies them whenever he can. Zoos, private breeding areas, wildlife refuges and research areas have provided him with opportunities to capture his subjects on film. Twice, Rod has traveled as far away as Africa to study his animals and has spent nearly sixty days in the bush.

When selecting his subject, he does not just paint an animal or bird. He paints a personality. Rod strives to capture the individual expression in his subjects' faces, and pencil sketches minute details, so that he doesn't miss the unique look of each animal. He focuses his full attention on capturing the differences between the same breeds or species. He also creates a strong, expressive eye, in which he masterfully reveals the animal's mood. Establishing eye contact with the painting allows the observer to meet the animal.

His painting medium is watercolor, which enables great detail in the subtle differences of color markings and textures. Rod's sensitivity to the intrinsic appeal of fur and feathers and his attention to detail creates an illusion of softness made by the thousands of brush strokes he carefully places on his paper.

The gifted artist has illustrated several books, and has done numerous covers for Pennsylvania Game News and Prevention magazines. In addition to being a highly successful wildlife artist, he also does commissioned portraits of pets, and in order to keep up with the demand for his watercolors, he has turned to limited edition prints. His works have been widely collected and are found in many private, public and corporate collections throughout the United States.
