Ch. Castle Bar Cameo & Ch. Castle Bar Commander
CH MACH Jerusalem Katherina Minola B CD

Ch. Jerusalem Tyler Too x Ch. Jerusalem Primrose 3/29/97 Breeder: Dr. Phyllis Pullen

The First Norwich Terrier to earn the AKC’s MACH title becoming the first Norwich AKC dual-champion.

CH. Jerusalem Katherina Minola B CD MX MXJ (Kate) earned the “Master Agility Champion” (MACH) title on Sunday 19 June 2005 at the American Belgian Tervuren Club’s agility trial in Frederick Maryland. Kate is the first Norwich terrier to earn the American Kennel Club’s MACH title, and thus becomes the first Norwich AKC dual-champion. She loses the agility titles at the end of her name, MX (Master Agility) and MXJ (Master Agility Jumpers), and adds MACH to the beginning to become “CH MACH Jerusalem Katherina Minola B CD”. Kate was bred by Dr. Phyllis K. Pullen and is owned and handled by Blair Kelly.

The MACH title requires both speed and consistency. Speed is measured by MACH “points”. Each point represents one full second under “standard course time” - the time the judge believes the average dog at that height should run the course that the judge has set. The points are cumulative and can be earned over the life of the dog, but can only be earned from the Excellent B class - the highest level of AKC agility. To earn a MACH, 750 points are needed. Consistency is measured by qualifying with perfect scores - on the same day! - in both the standard course and the jumpers course. Qualifying in both is called a “double-Q”. Again, double-Q’s can only be earned in the Excellent B classes. To earn a MACH, 20 double-Q’s are needed.

Kate earned a total of 33 double-Q’s and 753 points spread over 289 runs (145 standard, 144 jumpers). Along the way she earned 42 blue first-place ribbons (23 standard, 18 jumpers), 33 red second-place ribbons (21 standard, 12 jumpers), 27 yellow third-place ribbons (20 standard, 7 jumpers), and 19 white fourth-place ribbons (11 standard, 8 jumpers). In agility, dogs only compete against other dogs of a similar height at the withers. Kate competes in the 8 inch jumper height division. Her overall qualifying rate was 51.6 percent (62.1 percent standard, 40.1 percent jumpers). Kate earned 587 points in 70 standard runs (mean 8.3, mode 8) and 166 points in 41 jumpers runs (mean 4.0, mode 2).

Kate was born on 29 March 1997, began agility training at six months of age, and entered her first agility trial on 14 November 1998. She earned her first MACH point on 18 September 1999 not long after moving into the Excellent B Jumpers class, and her first double-Q on 9 April 2000. Kate was the first dog that her owner Blair Kelly had ever trained. Along the way to the MACH, in 2001 Kate took time off to have a litter of five puppies (three survived) and all three times qualified for and attended the AKC National Agility Championships (2000, 2003, and 2005). In addition, Kate had to sit idle while her owner-handler became an AKC agility judge and went off and judged 116 agility trials.

Kate’s daughter, Shaksper Bianca Minola MX MXJ (Bianca), currently has 8 double-Q’s and 236 points.

Official Standard for the Norwich Terrier (AKC)

General Appearance - The Norwich Terrier, spirited and stocky with sensitive prick ears and a slightly foxy expression, is one of the smallest working terriers. This sturdy descendent or ratting companions, eager to dispatch small vermin alone or in a pack, has good bone and substance and an almost weatherproof coat. A hardy hunt terrier - honorable scars from fair wear and tear are acceptable.

Size, Proportion, Substance - One of the smallest of the terriers, the ideal height should not exceed 10 inches at the withers. Distance from the top of the withers to the ground and from the withers to base of tail are approximately equal. Good bone and substance. Weight approximately 12 pounds. It should be in proportion to the individual dog's structure and balance. Fit working condition is prime consideration.

Head - A slightly foxy expression. Eyes small, dark and oval shaped with black rims. Placed well apart with a bright and keen expression. Ears medium size and erect. Set well apart with pointed tips. Upright when alert.

The skull is broad and slightly rounded with good width between the ears. The muzzle is wedge shaped and strong. Its length is about one-third less than the measurement from the occiput to the well-defined stop. The jaw is clean and strong. Nose and lip pigment black. Tight-lipped with large teeth. A scissor bite.

Forequarters - Well laid back shoulders. Elbows close to ribs. Short, powerful legs, as straight as is consistent with the digging terrier. Pasterns firm. Feet round with thick pads. Nails black. The feet point forward when standing or moving.

Hindquarters - Broad, strong and muscular with well-turned stifles. Hocks low set and straight when viewed from the rear. Feet as in front.

Coat - Hard, wiry and straight, lying close to the body with a definite undercoat. The coat on neck and shoulders forms a protective mane. The hair on head, ears and muzzle, except for slight eyebrows and whiskers, is short and smooth. This breed should be shown with as natural a coat as possible. A minimum of tidying is permissible but shaping should be heavily penalized.

Color - All shades of red, wheaten, black and tan or grizzle. White marks are not desirable.

Gait - The legs moving parallel, extending forward, showing great powers of propulsion. Good rear angulation with a true, yet driving movement. The forelegs move freely with feet and elbows the same distance apart, converging slightly with increased pace. Hind legs follow in the track of the forelegs, flexing well at the stifle and hock. The topline remains level.

Temperament - Gay, fearless, loyal and affectionate. Adaptable and sporting, they make ideal companions.

Highwood Puppy “Cassie” - Highwood Norwich Terriers
What to Know About a Dog’s Family Tree
by Joanne Faulkner
www.kaboomboxers.com

Titles and information listed on a dog’s printed family tree certificate (called a pedigree) can display a great deal about the individual dog and its qualities. Certified true pedigrees are available, for a fee, from official breed registry clubs such as the American Kennel Club, the Canadian Kennel Club, or the United Kennel Club (located in the United States). Reputable breeders generally provide their own un-official versions (often containing more detail than certified pedigrees) with each puppy they sell.

The layout of a pedigree is traditionally in a horizontal left-to-right format, with only a few dogs appearing on the far left (the dog and its parents), and increasing to the predominant number of ancestors towards the far right. Males are always listed on top, females on the bottom; therefore the entire top half of the horizontal pedigree contains the ancestors of the sire, and the entire bottom half contains the ancestors of the dam.

A more informative pedigree (most useful to serious breeders studying family traits, but not available through breed registries) is a vertical pedigree with three columns: the dog and its siblings in the left column; the two parents, and all of their siblings in the middle; and the four grandparents and their siblings in the right column. This format gives a visual map of not just the direct ancestors, but the extended family as well, which can be helpful when researching specific traits.

CONFORMATION

Each breed has its own unique written document - a “blueprint” or “breed standard” - registered with the kennel clubs. This document describes the perfect representative of the breed in detail: from nose to tail, every body part in between, including the ideal bone structure, coat texture, hair length, acceptable colours for the breed, overall size, weight, and ideal temperament characteristics. Conformation show judges base their decisions on how closely each dog matches its breed standard.

A “CH” title (at the beginning of the dog’s registered name) is one of the most common titles to see in a pedigree, and also an important one, as this proves the dog itself is officially recognized by the Canadian Kennel Club (CKC), American Kennel Club (AKC), Union Cynologique International (UCI), or the United Kennel Club (UKC) as a Champion. A Champion is a dog of good quality, in comparison to each kennel club’s written breed standard (correct bone structure, movement, temperament).

Dogs shown in Canada become Champions after they have earned at least 10 points in a Canadian show ring (by defeating others in their class or group), earning single points, or clusters of points, under at least three different licensed judges.

American Champions are dogs who have earned at least 15 points in an American show ring, with a minimum of two clusters of points (called “majors” - at least 3 points at a time) required. The dog must earn a combination of these 15 points (singles and majors) under at least three different licensed judges.

To earn an International Champion (Int CH, or Int’1 CH) title without travelling abroad, dogs may compete at shows held in Canada or the US under the Union Cynologie International (UCI) rules. A dog achieves an International Championship title after earning three Certificat d’Aptitude au Championat International de Beute (“Certificates of Beauty”) from UCI. These certificates must be awarded by three different licensed judges, with at least two of the judges residing in different countries (ie. two Americans and one Canadian or one German). AKC and CKC pedigrees do not list an International Championship, but breeders recognize this title as an effective tool in evaluating breeding stock, since the judges give the owner an oral and written critique of their dog’s conformation.

To earn an UKC Champion title, a dog must win 3 Best Male/Female (or higher) classes at 3 different shows under 3 different UKC licensed judges, and earn a total of at least 100 points. A UKC Championship can sometimes be confused with a UK (United Kingdom) Championship - keep in mind the UKC is located in the United States (but is completely separate from the AKC) and holds events under its own set of rules. Champions in one country or kennel club are not automatically champions in another; all dogs must earn each title under each kennel club’s Champion requirements, hence the “big winners” in the breed often display a long list of prefix titles to indicate what countries they have become champions in (Am/CAN/INT CH). Some even have Bermuda, Japan, or Mexico titles as well!

Show officials record all results for each class and send them to the official kennel club, and when the dog has finished its championship (earned its Champion title) the kennel club provides a certificate to the owner.

OBEIDENCE

An obedience title demonstrates to those viewing the pedigree that the dog is intelligent, hard working, able to be trained, and able to perform his/her training in a show venue for testing purposes. A “CD” (Companion Dog) title listed at the end of the dog’s registered name is the first step in obedience. This level tests for individual basic manners such as heel (patterns performed by the dog and owner/handler on and off leash, including the figure-8 pattern), come on recall, and stand for examination, as well as a group exercise consisting of a one-minute sit/stay and three-minute down/stay for all the class dogs together.

The second step in obedience is the CDX (Companion Dog Excellent) which is a more advanced test of the dog and handler’s skills and abilities. The CDX level tests more advanced manners such as off-leash heeling, an off-leash figure-8 pattern, and also adds longer sits and downs (with the handler leaving the ring), a high jump (with dumbbell retrieval), long jump, and other multiple actions required by one command from the handler. Some breeds are more inclined to perform well in advanced obedience than others are, with hunting, herding, and retrieving dogs being good candidates. Breeds that are generally more stubborn and independent (yes, this includes Boxers) can be a much greater challenge to their owners/handlers when it comes to advanced obedience work, and need a great deal of creativity to motivate them in their training.

Dogs earn their obedience titles successively, completing each title after a certain number of Qualifying Scores, or “Legs” at various levels of competition (a minimum overall score requirement, and a passing score in each section of the test). A failure in any of the required activities means the dog automatically fails the
A dog that has earned three Legs and passed its CD can then go on to CDX, and from there, UD and UDX (Utility Dog and Utility Dog Excellent). The UD and UDX testing includes advanced jumping/retrieving as well as retrieval of objects by scent, and earning the UDX title requires 10 qualifying scores. Once a dog has a CDX title, it no longer carries the CD title, as all dogs must earn a CD prior to earning a CDX (therefore carrying the previous title is a given). A dog with a UD title will not use the CDX title anymore, and so on.

After a dog completes its UD title, it can begin working towards an OTCH (Obedience Trial Champion) title with the CKC or AKC. Dogs may continue to compete in the UD class and (in addition to working towards a UDX) work towards an OTCH status based on points earned, and a specific number of first place class wins in specified classes. The OTCH title, unlike the other obedience titles, is a “Champion” title and therefore applied to the dog’s registered name as a prefix (at the beginning). Dogs can carry an OTCH title, and a UD or UDX title, due to the separate requirements of each.

The United Kennel Club (UKC) refers to their obedience titles as UCD (United Companion Dog), UCDX (United Companion Dog Excellent), UUD (United Utility Dog), and UOC (United Obedience Champion). The UOC title is a combination of a specified number of qualifying scores and overall points, and dogs can only work towards and earn this title after the completion of their UUD.

OTHER WORKING and CHAMPION TITLES

Suffix titles (at the end of the dog’s registered name) also include titles earned at various levels for Herding, Agility, Schutzhund, Hunting, Lure Coursing, Tracking, Versatile Companion Dog, and Flyball, just to name a few. In addition to the CH title already mentioned, other prefix titles include other “champions”: Field Champion (FC), National Gun Dog Champion (NGDC), Herding Champion (HC), Dual Champion (DC - a conformation champion as well as field champion or herding champion), and many more.

Of course, it is not common to see herding titles on non-herding breeds (in fact, it could be somewhat unnerving to try teaching a Boxer to herd ducks rather than snack on them), but the point is that it is possible to work towards more than an obedience or conformation title for those who like other activities.

Each of the two main kennel clubs (AKC and CKC) as well as the lesser-known UCI and UKC, have their own titles; some titles are unique to one registry, while others are more commonly known and attainable in several clubs. In any case, kennel club registries in one country do not recognize titles in another; titles earned in the United States are not transferable or recognized in Canada, and vice versa. To earn a Champion or working/obedience title with the AKC, the dog must have completed the requirements of that title under AKC rules at AKC events in the United States. To earn a title with the CKC, the dog must compete under CKC rules at CKC events in Canada. To earn an International title, the dog must compete under UCI rules. Therefore, it is possible to have a Utility Dog Excellent (UDX) title in Canada, and be competing in the Companion Dog (CD) class in the United States at an AKC obedience trial.

One might assume that once a dog has an advanced obedience or working title, it is easy to breeze through the basic tests again, but every competition brings new distractions. Keep in mind that whenever a Boxer is involved, anything can happen!

TEMPERAMENT

Beyond the assumption that a dog must have a stable disposition if it has any recognized title, breeders and puppy buyers are now specifically looking for dogs with temperament titles in their pedigrees. Official temperament testing examines the dog’s reaction to a number of different exercises such as distractions, perceived threats, being approached by strangers, walking on unfamiliar surfaces, and sounds such as gunshots or the sudden banging of an object against a tin pot.

The AKC refers to its version of temperament testing as “Canine Good Citizen” (CGC), and the CKC has “Canine Good Neighbour” (CGN). Breeders also use an unofficial version - the “Temperament Test” (TT) - but the kennel club registries do not officially recognize this test or list it on certified pedigrees.

PRODUCERS

A “SOM” or “DOM” title (at the end of a dog’s registered name) is very reassuring in the pedigree, as this proves the dog is recognized as having PRODUCED good quality puppies who have gone on to earn their own championships (something a puppy-buyer might want to know, even when looking for a family companion rather than a show dog). Dogs can earn SOM or DOM status even if they themselves are not champions; these titles recognize the ability to produce good quality offspring.

A male attains an SOM (Sire of Merit) title only after seven of his offspring have finished their show championship titles, and a female attains a DOM (Dam of Merit) title after four of her puppies finish their championships. The SOM or DOM title is not an easy title to get, since many good puppies end up in “pet” homes, and owners may be reluctant to show them.

SOMC refers to a Sire of Merit in Canada. DOMC refers to a Dam of Merit in Canada. If the title is “SOM” or “DOM” it usually refers to an American title, although many Canadian breeders chart their dogs’ bloodlines using SOM and DOM letters in the pedigree.

A male who is a Sire of Merit (sire of seven or more champions) can qualify for Legion of Merit status if he has produced four or more offspring who have attained Sire or Dam of Merit status (verifying that he is a producer of producers). A female who is a Dam of Merit (dam of four or more champions) can qualify for Legion of Merit status if she has produced three or more offspring who have attained Sire or Dam of Merit status.

The “producer” titles are not listed on certified pedigrees, but are recognized by the specific national breed clubs (ie. Boxer Club of Canada, American Boxer Club, etc). Generally, these titles are recognized when the dog is older, sometimes even after the dog has died. For example, an 11-year-old male who has sired a limited number of litters, or has had only a few puppies end up in show homes, may very well have his champion number seven finish after he is gone, and the producer of producers (Legion of Merit titleholders) will take many more years to earn their recognition. Most breeders keep their own detailed records, updating statistics on past generations as the young ones earn their titles; these breeders, as well as the internet, are a good source of information when tracing history and producer titles.
HEALTH TESTING RESULTS and OTHER INFORMATION

Health problems are in all breeds, all lines, all around the world, and Boxers are no exception. One way to confirm that breeders have been health testing throughout any bloodline is to review the pedigree.

On an official AKC pedigree, each dog’s registered name printed on the certificate has a series of numbers and letters underneath it. The first number under the name is the AKC Stud Book registration number, and then in brackets, the month and year of the issue of the stud book register which records the dog’s first breeding experience. The next numbers list any health testing results: OFA (Orthopedic Foundation for Animals) registration numbers, including indication of hip and/or elbow certification, and age (in months) at time of certification, as well as CERF (Canine Eye Registration Foundation) and age at certification. The letters listed after the health testing are the dog’s colour and markings.

The second line under the dog’s name on an AKC pedigree is the DNA number (if the dog has been registered in the DNA database - if not, there is no second line of numbers under the name). The AKC has built the world’s largest database of canine DNA profiles for parentage verification and genetic identity purposes. The AKC assigns this number when the DNA sample is added into the database; uniquely linking the dog to a DNA Genotype, which can be used for genetic identity and parentage verification purposes. DNA certifications may not appear in the third and fourth generations on a printed AKC pedigree due to space limitation. The UKC also has its own DNA registry, and lists its DNA profiled dogs on UKC pedigrees.

When buying a puppy, the more titles and database registry numbers the parents have in their pedigrees, the more certain one can be that the puppy has excellent qualities which have been proven for many generations in the ring as well as the whelping box. Many breed books, kennel club magazines, and articles on the internet feature these titleholders, which can be interesting and educational for both pet and show people.

The Care and Placement of a Litter

The new litter has just arrived home from the veterinarian. Everyone is elated because the puppies are mewing and active -- and finally here.

And this is when the work begins, where the vigil starts.

Surroundings

You will have prepared a small room to house a whelping box (for Norwich, an appropriate size might be 32 inches by 20 inches and 4 1/2 inches deep), which should have a heating pad laid inside, wrapped in flannel and pinned underneath, and a heat lamp some three feet removed from (never over) the box. The room - perhaps a bathroom - should be warm and free of drafts. Keep a thermometer there to monitor the temperature, and, if the area seems dry, be sure to use a humidifier.

The bitch and her litter should immediately be ensconced in these comfortable surroundings. But your new mom is likely to be bleeding; you should put a little peroxide on a washtowel, turn her over, and clean her bottom and dirty hair. And you should have six clean infant receiving blankets available. After washing her, place a blanket beneath her to absorb any excess blood -- and keep changing it, as necessary.

Introduction to Nursing

If, as is often the case in Norwich, the bitch has had a caesarian section, she will normally be somewhat disoriented, because of the anesthesia, and initially may not want to lie down with her babies. You should move the pups to the end of the whelping box and turn the bitch on her side, holding her down, gently but firmly, until she starts to relax. Then plug each pup in, helping it to form a seal as it begins to nurse. (The longest that I have had to monitor a bitch like this was for four days. She finally put it together, but I was up every night at 1:00 am and 4:00 am to get her to go into the box and stay with the puppies -- lying on the floor with my hand in the box until the puppies were full. It was a litter of six, and the mother was totally overwhelmed. When she figured it out, she was the best mom ever. It just takes patience and perseverance.)

If you have some smaller pups, the introduction to nursing can require a combination of tenderness -- and patience. (You may wish to have someone with you to help.) Pinch the nipple and moisten it with colostrum or warm water. If the puppy doesn’t open its mouth, place your thumb and forefinger on either side of its muzzle and gently force the mouth open. Then place the moistened nipple into the mouth so the puppy can get a grip and continue to support the pup against its mother. You should leave each puppy on for not less than five minutes.

Take your time with each puppy that needs help getting started. (And recognize that your first sign of potential trouble with a puppy is that it will not nurse.)

If you have a large litter (over four), place half the litter on for five minutes and then the other half for its turn. Use all the nipples -- even those that may look inverted or small. It is, of course, very important that all the puppies get some initial colostrum. It is full of nutrient that will sustain them until your bitch’s milk comes in.

Lactation

Milk comes in at different times. I had the pleasure of whelping a litter naturally this year, and the milk was in six hours after the bitch gave birth. But caesarian lactation is more erratic. If you schedule your c-section based on preliminary labor and a progesterone test, the normal time for milk to come in is two days. (If I have decided on a c-section for my bitch, I try to wait until she is approaching full labor before going to the veterinarian; I find that her milk will come in sooner if I wait at home longer. I can afford to cut it close, because my vet is available at all times and lives close by. But most people may not have that luxury.) During the interval, your bitch will certainly have liquid available, and your puppies should be able to manage this period without dehydration - - if they are not preemies (3 1/2 ounces or less).

But be alert to the signs of dehydration. If a puppy’s mouth seems dry, pinch its skin. If the fold stays formed, you (or your vet) must immediately rehydrate by injection, using a Number 22 needle to introduce four ccs of Lactated Ringer’s Solution USP subcutaneously between the shoulder blades. And as for the mother, you will certainly be able to tell when her milk starts coming down. She will pant and show discomfort.

Puppy Hygiene

By the time the bitch’s milk has come in, she should be cleaning her puppies. Usually no problem. But some bitches -- perhaps understandably - don’t readily take to this job. Make sure you have a bag of cotton balls available. Soak a cotton ball in a cup of warm water, and squeeze it so it won’t drip. Dab at the puppies’ peepes until they go. Take a fresh cotton ball, moistened the same way, and gently rub it across the puppies’ rectums right to left, left to right, up and down. This should stimulate a bowel movement. (You may need several moistened cotton balls.) Do this for each puppy in the beginning, when the litter first comes home. If the bitch does not want to clean them and continues to jump out of the box, however, I hold the puppies up to her face. I will even take a soiled cotton ball and swab her tongue with it so she starts to get the idea. This reluctance - - or perhaps, fastidious disdain - - can occur with a first time mom or occasionally after a c-section, when the bitch is so disoriented by the anesthesia that she may not realize that these are her own pups.

Early Growth Stages

You should continually weigh your puppies until they reach a pound, monitoring their growth. Take their birth weights at the veterinary’s office or when you first come home -- on a digital scale which measures tenths of an ounce, an important increment in the beginning. I weigh in the morning and at night, at the same times each day. Your puppies will usually lose weight the first and second day -- not a lot, but up to a half ounce. This is very normal. Just be sure that you keep plugging them in, both to stimulate milk production and to ensure that they get as much colostrum as the bitch can produce. Thereafter, the weight gain should be continuous. Your pups should have at least doubled their birth weight at two weeks.

At about the fourth or fifth day, the puppies should begin to look shiny -- and to twitch a little. (A small, periodic spasm is a sign of healthy development.) The umbilicus should be dried up. You can trim it to two inches on the third day if it is dry and the mom continues to worry it. Otherwise, just leave it; it usually falls off within a week.

Docking Tails and Removal of Dew Claws
You should normally dock tails and remove dew claws between the fifth and eighth days. Earlier is better -- if you have a nursing, gaining litter. But if you have small puppies or a preemie in the litter, I advise you simply to leave the tails. It is traumatic for puppies otherwise stressed also to undergo docking. You can lost them. A small puppy may just be getting a grip on life and starting to gain, and the docking could radically reverse its tenuous progress. If the pup should then stop suckling altogether, you must promptly return it to the vet for special care -- or yourself learn to tube feed and rehydrate by injection.

If you have to keep tails, you then should wait until the puppies are five or six months old before you schedule tail docking and dew claw removal. At that age, a puppy needs to be anaesthetized and the tail, stitched. It is a significant surgery, but not difficult or risky.

At Highwood, if we have sold an as yet undocked puppy, I always offer to have our vet perform the procedure, and I pay for it. But most owners have their own vet do it, and simply send me the bill. And, in several instances, I found that the owners enjoyed having the tail.

Early -- and Common -- Medical Issues
The Mother. If your bitch has had a c-section, she will often have exterior stitches. I normally take them out at ten days. Otherwise, the stitches can become ingrown (like a hair) and cause a lot of discomfort to a nursing bitch. Have your vet do it if you are not confident. The vet not only has the proper tools, but would get a chance to see her and check her out. (Actually, most vets now use three layers of dissolving stitches, so it might not be an issue. But ask.)

* The Puppies’ Eyes. Their eyes can start opening from ten days on. If you notice a crusty build-up at the corner of the eye or along the rim, or if the eye opens and sealed again, take a moistened cotton ball and soak the eye with warm water. You should do this several times a day. If the build-up is stubborn, ask your vet for a puppy antibiotic to put on the eye to help soften and medicate the situation. Under no circumstance force the eye open. Nature is keeping it shut for a reason. Nothing can happen if an eye is closed for an extended period of time.

* The Mite. Mites are very common in Norwich. I have found that certain bitches seem more predisposed to have puppies that will have mites. It is usually the bitch with an apparently weaker immune system. She may herself have suffered before pregnancy with skin irritations or dryness; she may herself have had ear or eye infections as a puppy. She may have been a picky eater or had bouts with diarrhea. When mites do occur, often only one puppy in the litter is afflicted. That would lead me to believe that the puppy’s immune system may not be as strong as its litter mates'.

But mites aren’t dirty, nor can they hurt your puppy. And mites are very fragile. To get rid of them, start bathing the puppy at two weeks with Johnson’s Baby Shampoo or a comparable “No tears” puppy shampoo. (When you bathe at such a young age, use small towels and keep changing them if they become too wet as you are drying.) Importantly, you need to wash not just the mite-ridden pup, but all the puppies in the litter -- and the mother. And you need to wash out the whelping box with soap and water; the bedding needs to be fresh that day as well.

The puppies should be kept very warm during this process. You should continue washing every week until they are six weeks old and receive their first round of inoculations. This will keep the situation from escalating. After their inoculations, particularly if there is any reinfection, you can start using a topical antibiotic and washing with a diluted flea and tick shampoo. This has always remedied the situation for me.

* Crusting and Scabbing. A crusting patch of skin and hair on the side or flank, shoulder or neck is alarming and can occur as early as five or six days. (I had originally thought that the condition might be mange-related, but it disappears with treatment and doesn’t recur. Mange, on the other hand, is recurring and is usually carried by the animal to the next generation. Its symptoms include lacerations and patches of open, raw skin. It doesn’t always respond to medication.)

To treat a crusting condition, soften the area with Animax (similar to Panalog) -- but use very little. Keep the mass soft and massage it. On the third or fourth day, put the puppy in your lap and loosen the edges of the mass with a flea comb, prying up just enough to define the edge of the mass. Again, soften with the Animax. If there are several areas, treat them in a similar fashion. The secret here is to wait it out.

Eventually, after perhaps two or three weeks, the mass will start to dry and peel away. Use the comb to clear the loose portions of the mass and keep lightly medicating.

Sometimes you will find scabbing throughout the body coat. Take your flea comb and comb through, knocking the scabe off. Then medicate with the Animax. Do this every three or four days. You will notice that the skin will become smooth and the scabbing will stop. When you use Animax on the coat, separate the medicated puppy for 30 minutes until most of the medication is absorbed. Litter mates will lick it off.

* Toenails. Make sure you are clipping the puppies’ toenails. They can easily claw each other when they scramble to nurse. And getting scratched in the eye is not good.

* Worming. Puppies should be wormed at two to four weeks of age. You will then be able to feel confident that your puppy is getting -- and retaining -- all its nourishment from mom. I use Strongid liquid, a very mild wormer, available premixed from your vet, that takes care of round worms and hook worms -- the principal potential puppy pests. (Strongid lasts a long time -- up to a year -- in the refrigerator.) At two weeks, two drops is an appropriate dosage for the average puppy. I worm the mother at the same time, one half cc for every ten pounds of her body weight.

* Change of Venue. When they are about three weeks old, the puppies will begin to climb -- or flop -- out of their whelping box. They have graduated to a puppy play pen. Our play pen is about two and a half feet square, its floor comprising two trays covered with toweling that sit on a grate bottom that is six inches off the floor. A rabbit waterer hangs on the side of the pen, and a heating pad rests in the corner, again covered with a flannel pillow case pinned on the back, its switch fed through the side panel of the pen and taped to the wall. I put lots of large sheepskin toys in the corners so they can snuggle up to a mass when mom is not to be found.

* Weaning. Weaning can be done when it is convenient for you -- and for the mother. She may be getting a little sick of all those puppies and finding more reasons -- most of them teeth -- to stay out of the puppy play pen. My rule of thumb is based on the size of the litter. If the mother has a large litter (five or more) and is producing a lot of milk, it is surely taking its toll on her. For her benefit I will start weaning at three weeks. With litters of three or four, I wean at four to five weeks. With litters of one or two, I wait until the mom gives me a clear signal; it is usually five to six weeks. At the appropriate point, I simply begin to introduce puppy cereal in the morning before I put mom to nurse. (Be aware that, upon weaning, with the introduction of alien foodstuffs, the mother will quickly lose interest in cleaning up after her offspring.)

* Puppy’s First Solid Foods. My recipe for starters: Two tablespoons of Gerber’s Rice Cereal mixed with one teaspoon of evaporated milk and diluted with warm water. At first, the solution should be soupy. I place one puppy in my lap and put a spoonful of the mixture to its mouth, relying on its senses of smell and taste -- and its inevitable curiosity -- and then repeat the process with each pup in the litter. (It can be a bit messy in the beginning.) I follow this routine, gradually making the mixture thicker, until they start to catch on, usually after four of five days.

At this point, I grind a Beecham’s Pet-Tab with a mortar and add it to their cereal. (When they are a bit older, they can readily chomp quarter tablet pieces.) At the same time, I begin to soften a few Purina Puppy Chow nuggets with water, and see if I can get them to accept it. Once they do, the process accelerates. I can then put a flat dish with the cereal mixture down in the playpen in the morning for them to eat by themselves. But I put a receiving blanket beneath the dish. In the first few days, they seem to waste through their food as often as they pause to partake. I simply wipe everyone down -- face, paws, whatever -- with a damp paper towel, until the puppies figure out what food is really for, usually rather quickly.

For the next week or so, the mom will nurse after the puppies’ morning cereal. You may find that she will regurgitate her food from her own morning feeding for the pups to eat -- nature’s answer to Gerber’s Rice Cereal. If this should happen on a regular basis, simply wait several hours after she has eaten before allowing her in with the litter.

The puppies will now have cereal in the morning and softened Puppy Chow (one quarter cup per pup) for midday and late afternoon feedings. I start to add cooked ground meat to the softened puppy chow the next week.

* Immunizations. My vet gives inclusions starting at six weeks. At that point, we give Parvo only and worm again with Strongid. At seven weeks, we give the Influenza Cocktail. Three weeks after that, we give both shots again and three weeks after that we give both shots and a puppy rabies booster. I happen to include Lepto in my inoculation routine. Many breeders choose not to give this vaccine, essentially because there are so many different strains of the virus, so that, even if inoculated, one could contact a mutated Lepto. But I have never had an issue. And I have seen the disease at work. It is debilitating and can be passed to children by the sick pet. That was enough for me to continue to inoculate my puppies.

The Puppy's New World. I let my puppies go to their new homes at about three months of age. I do not ship. I expect the purchasers to come to Bedford, New York to pick up their puppy. If air travel is involved, I expect the new owner to fly with the puppy in the cabin. I can provide all sorts of crates and gates, leashes and bowls, Sherpa Bags and doggie beds if needed either for the journey or for the home. I send the puppy to its new world laden with Pet Tabs, Precise Puppy kibble, some ground cooked hamburger, and a can of Pedigree puppy food.

With any prospective home, I have always sought to establish a sound working relationship well before the actual pickup -- usually with adults, but occasionally, if appropriate, with children in the family as well. Discussions range from dealing with other pets in the family to jealous siblings to baby proofing the room where the puppy will reside. At the point of pickup, I always build in time for questions, and, if there are children, I go over carrying procedure and the puppy's need both for time and for a private retreat in an active home environment. And I am always thereafter available by phone to handle any problem.

A puppy is always returnable for a full refund until it is four months old. (This gives me time to replace the puppy's home while it is still young enough to bond with a new family.) And I will always take any dog that I have bred back to Highwood - - at any age.

What you have just read is the method that I have found most accommodating in placing my puppies. Everyone has a little different way of doing things -- and, for that matter, I keep learning new things, so this article will be updated, I'm quite sure. It was written primarily as an educational piece for those who are new to the breed or who are just starting out as breeders. It provides a lot of information that I wish had been available to me when I was myself first setting forth.

A Final Note. I have never written a contract. Paper can only impede the purpose and reduce the pleasure of putting the right puppy with the right owner. (And, in any event, puppy contracts are largely unenforceable.) Instead, I try to get to know the person who is purchasing my puppy, to gain a sense of their family, to develop an appreciation of the environment in which a little animal will spend its life. To determine the nature of the people to whom it will offer its loyalty, those whom it will come to love. After having whelped over forty litters and happily placed a small legion of Norwich terriers, I can honestly say that I would have it no other way.
C-Sections: Does your bitch need one?

by Jocelyn Jacobs, DVM

No matter how many litters we have behind us in our breeding programs, a level of anxiety still exists around whelping time. Questions run through my mind, just like other breeders, such as “will she need a cesarean section (c-section) this time?” or after it appears she is done whelping, “is there a puppy or two still left inside?” Being a veterinarian doesn’t make this part of being a breeder any easier or less stressful!

Having a good working relationship with your veterinarian during whelping time is essential. There are many questions they will need answers to in determining whether your bitch will require a c-section. Having answers ready for them is extremely important.

Key Questions: c-section indicators

Previously has she whelped normally?

Previous whelping history does not necessarily reflect future whelping ability. If your bitch needed a c-section last time, it may or may not be the case this time. For example, if there was only one large puppy the last time, the pelvis may not have been able to accommodate it. If there are multiple smaller puppies in this litter, the bitch may deliver naturally.

Taking radiographs (x-rays) of the bitch one to two weeks prior to whelping can help to estimate the number of puppies present. Although this may not always give an exact count with larger litters, it will prove important for those bitches only carrying one or two puppies.

Is your bitch weak or acting sick?

Bitches who are acting weak or begin to show signs of illness may not be able to deliver puppies on their own. These bitches may have weak or non-productive contractions and require a c-section.

Have there been unusual temperature changes?

Normally, bitches will have a temperature drop to 97.5 degrees - 99.0 degrees 12 to 24 hours prior to whelping. However, if there is a temperature drop followed by a temperature rise a day or two later with no signs of labor, this may be an indication an infection or uterine inertia may be present.

Has there been any colored discharge?

Bright red blood, yellow pus-like material, or black sticky discharge should be considered abnormal prior to whelping. After a puppy is born, there may be some dark green or black discharge which is normal. Sometimes during the birth of a puppy, bright red blood may also be seen. However, any discharge pre-whelping is considered abnormal and your veterinarian should be alerted.

When do you think she should be due?

Normally bitches have puppies 63 days after the ovulation date. However, unless this was accurately determined via blood tests, most breeders do not know the exact date of ovulation. Too many breeders get hung up on the dates the dog was bred, and assume 63 days after a breeding is the date the bitch should whelp. Breeding dates are not necessarily the day of ovulation, thus whelping can occur later than expected. This exact situation happened with one of my breedings. One of my bitches was bred very early in her cycle, and later breedings were not possible due to illness of the stud dog. She ended up delivering healthy puppies naturally 72 days from that breeding date!

Bitches should not undergo a surgical c-section unless they are minimally demonstrating signs of early labor (stage 1 labor) such as nesting, panting, or shivering due to a core body temperature drop. During this time, important chemical interaction is going on between the bitch and puppies. One example involves the production of surfactant. Surfactant is laid down in the lungs of puppies during the last day or so of pregnancy to allow them to breathe properly post-deliver. If a c-section is done too early, this chemical is not present in the lungs of the newborns, and death commonly occurs within 12-24 hours.

How long have there been active contractions without delivery of a puppy?

If active contractions occur for more than 60 minutes without delivery of a puppy, then a c-section needs to be performed.

How long has it been between puppies?

If your bitch is carrying a very large litter, it has been known to take up to 24 hours before the whole litter is born. It is not unusual for the bitch to rest for a few hours between puppies. However, if there are more than 4 hours between puppies, especially early in the whelping process, then a c-section may need to be considered. If active contractions continue between the puppies, but no puppy is born over a one hour time frame, then a c-section also may be in order.

Is there anything exposed from the vaginal area?

If a placental sac is exposed for more than 30 minutes with no puppy born, a c-section needs to be considered. This may be an indication that the puppy is too large for the pelvic canal causing the sac to slip through but the puppy can not. There also may be competition in the birth canal where two puppies are trying to come out simultaneously.

Has oxytocin been given? Has she been responsive?

If an oxytocin injection has been given and there is no response, then a second injection may be given within a 30 minute time interval. However, after the second injection if there is still little or no response, then the bitch needs a c-section. From personal experience, I have found that oxytocin is too quickly reached for by the average breeder. Oxytocin can sometimes cause more problems than help. Excessive oxytocin can be harmful causing the uterus to clamp down on the puppy. This decreases flow of vital blood and oxygen supply to the puppy, and can hamper its ability to move toward the vulva.

Conclusion

In general, most breeders at some point in their breeding career will have to have at least one c-section performed. Having a good working relationship with your veterinarian as well as having the answers to questions they have is the best way to be prepared for a c-section. It is critical to be prepared each time, no matter what your bitch’s previous history has been.

Introduction

Years ago, when Norwich ran abundant in my mother’s home and on her property, they were quite a different looking dog. They could have drop ears or prick ears -- or even one of each. They were usually red, with a naturally coarse, short coat. They seldom needed grooming because they were outside or in the barns doing their natural thing: hunting. Across the fields and through the hedgerows and adjacent woodland areas they would hunt, their coats groomed by their environment. Aside from an occasional bath (a run-in with a skunk, perhaps), a swim in the pond was the usual mode of wash.

These “old fashioned Norwich”, which is how they are kindly referred to today, were longer of body, a bit longer of leg, and devoid of furnishings. I remember thinking that they had a “wash & wear” coat. Their coats seldom held an odor, and, when they were muddied, the mud seemed naturally to carry dead hair out with it when it dried and was combed or brushed out. In winter, the dogs grew a heavy coat that came out in the spring when they could spend more time outside. It would stay short all summer and begin to thicken as the weather cooled in the fall.

Times and lifestyles have changed. Many owners wish to keep their dogs in shorter coat but do not live in an area that allows the dog to range, letting the environment to the work. Further, a number of owners have purchased a dog with the hope of doing some showing or obedience work. They wish to have some basic knowledge so that they can maintain a dog in good coat over a longer period of time.

With time and the separation of the breeds, Norwich and Norfolk terriers have changed, as well. We have two very different breeds now, and I believe that their coats are no longer that similar. What follows is an informational piece on grooming a Norwich terrier.

The Coat

The standard requires that the coat of the Norwich be hard, wiry, and straight; it should be rough and have an undercoat. The dog should be shown with as natural coat as possible.

You want to maintain a healthy coat that is lightly but continually groomed. By raking through and lightly stripping by hand, you are encouraging hair to grow in several layers. If you groom in this manner over a period of time, you are “rolling” the coat. (I did not learn to roll a coat until I wanted to “special” a dog. In the past, I would focus on a two-month period in the spring and again in the fall, showing on four or five weekends in each season. I could usually finish a bitch or dog during that period of time.) Specializing a dog entails a continual effort to keep the coat in condition. Every five to seven days, hair should be pulled through-out the coat.

The actual rolling of the coat is accomplished by pushing hairs against the grain and taking a few out at a time. To truly master the technique, you should first watch a professional. He will usually start above the tail and move up the back, stripping loose or dead hair and looking for anything that interferes with the silhouette that he is trying to create. He will continue up the sides, flattening the shoulders, working the neck and the ruff, all the time taking the fewest of hairs. Most professionals have developed a personal sense of the appropriate look for the breed and have a keen eye for the effect of their labors on the grooming table.

To maintain this effect, the coat should be gloved every few days with a natural bristle grooming glove. To ensure luster, brushing is a necessity. Mist the coat with water before brushing is helpful in achieving this. The legs should be kept in oil, so that the longer, drier hairs don’t break off. (Oil during the week, and wash out before you show. Several products work well; I use Aveeno Shampoo and Bath Oil). Massage the legs when you put them in oil, and be sure to get between the toes and around the pads. This is very helpful in the winter, when pads can become dry and cracked. Eqyss Mega Tek aids in hair growth and pad care.

When a dog is shown over a long period of time, you need to be careful what products you use to wash, condition, or prepare your dog for the ring. Make sure they are neither alcohol-based nor preparations for humans that might contain inappropriate chemicals.

To maintain a pet coat, I simply pull it down completely twice a year, once in the late spring and once in the early fall. This keeps the animal cool in summer, with good coat visibility for insects or skin problems, and permits the coat to grow in for the onset of winter. I condition the coat with All Systems Premium Protein Pack and suggest that the dog be dipped once in June and once in early August. Because of the prevalence of Lyme disease in our northeastern area, I also recommend a flea and tick collar and systematic examination of pets for bites and rashes. In the summer I shave the jacket, neck and sides of dogs over the age of 8. Pulling their coats becomes an increasing hardship for them and they are cool and insect free. I use a 10 blade. I leave some head hair and trimmed furnishings.

The Head

Everyone has a different approach to grooming the face and head. The term that some handlers use is ‘putting in the type’. Each breeder, groomer, or handler has a different idea of what he or she feels is ‘type’.

To be quite honest, I have myself just started fully to understand about different types. Within my own breeding program, I have recently developed several different looks. But this doesn’t mean that I don’t have a favorite. I like the face to be blocky, with the snout blunt but not too short. I like the eyes wide set, medium in size, very dark in color, and with dark eye rims. The nose should be medium in size and black, as should the lips, nails, and pads. I like the ears to be small and not too widely set.

Taking this as a model, I groom it. My first purpose is to establish the stop. I do this by hand, stripping the hair away from the corner of the eyes. I then take the coarse McClellan and rake lightly, with the hair growth, from the bridge of the nose back toward the top of the head. This is an ongoing grooming area, because you never take too much hair out at one time. From the middle of the stop, then groom in a triangle, back toward each ear. The face hair should always appear full, blending into the hair in front of the ears. There should be body above the eye, in the eyebrows. (I always leave those occasional stiff black hairs that protrude, trimming them back if they have a propensity to grow long and look unkempt.)

Depending on the shape of your dog’s head; there are several ways either to foreshorten a long muzzle or, conversely, to lengthen a short one: To shorten the muzzle, grow the hair directly above the nose to a longer length and comb it to each side. Blend this hair with longer hair behind this area and under the eye, continuing back along the side of the head and jaw line until it blends in with ruff. Lift the dog’s head, and comb the hair under the chin forward. You may want to cut a horizontal line with thinning shears under the chin. Cut only hair tips and ensure that you are not tight to the chin. This is a form of blunting, creating a heavier feeling at the end of the muzzle.

To make the nose appear foxier, take hair out above the nose and work back toward the eyes, lightly thinning the hair around the muzzle.

The Ears

The hair on the back of the ears should be pulled frequently. Use the Dr. Scholl’s Pedicure File. This extra-fine stripper works both with Norwich and the lighter ear of the Norfolk. I also hand pull. I do pull inside the ear, but only halfway down. That circular side ruff should continue in front of the ear and blend across the crown. The hair growing in front of and in the ear is left to support the ruff, affording a wiry look. The longer hairs are pulled so that all the hair in front extends only half to two-thirds of the way up the ear. The ear should have a clean look; the edge should be pulled as tightly as possible. If your dog has a large ear, keep the hair in front full and keep the backs, sides, and tips pulled closely. This will give the ear a pyramid shape, fitting into a fuller face without becoming the dominant feature on the head.

The Neck

One of the things that I have learned from grooming Norwich is the importance of length of neck. (A lot of Norwich have short necks.) A dog with proper length of neck is balanced and moves better. Always groom to show your dog’s neck and shoulder. The hair should lie flat from the base of the ear to the point of the shoulder. I take the hair out behind the ears, being careful not to interfere with the mane that builds and blends from the top of the head.

You should groom an area specifically for your show lead. The lead is placed quite forward on the dog’s neck. (It should, in fact, lie right behind his ears.) The mane, as I suggested earlier, then builds behind the lead, and the lead forces the facial ruff on the sides of the head and in front of the ears forward as the dog moves. It is important, especially when moving the dog, to have the neck area groomed properly. I have often seen, with an owner-handled dog, long hairs caught in front of the lead, giving an appearance a bit too unkempt for the ring, with the owner constantly fidgeting and stuffing the hair back under the lead, instead of focusing on relaxing and supporting his dog. The hair on the throat should be pulled. Do encourage hair growth on the upper chest and down between the legs, while being careful not to let a bushy look at the sides take away from your straight front coming back to the judge.

Front Legs

The first thing I do is to remove the hair behind the elbow -- the hair inside the upper leg that lies next to the ribcage. I also pull any hair that extends off the elbow. Then I trim a vertical line from the elbow to the top of the grooming table. Again, this is hair tips only, and very minimal. The area of the upper leg below the point of the shoulder needs to be kept very short at all times, very much like the area above the tail. You also need to keep the top of the leg groomed tightly. (You don’t want to move your dog toward a judge and have his upper legs and chest area appear too heavy.) Encourage hair growth between the front legs. The dog should appear from the front to have a strong chest, with his elbows close to his ribs. His legs should be straight from the point of the shoulder. His feet should be rounded, toes pointing forward, and his pads, thick and black. It is a sign of good movement to see those pads as the dog moves away from the judge.

Remember: You must pull hair to get hair. Soft, fine hair won’t hold up for an extended period of time. When you pull a coat down, you must always pull hair from inside the legs and from the belly area. They are sensitive places, but you will have a harsher, healthier coat in the long run.

Hind Leg

The rear legs of Norwich vary greatly. A well conformed Norwich should have broad, strong thighs with hocks set low. The toes should point forward and be rounded. This structure, with flexability at the stifle and hip, will allow the hind legs to reach forward when the dog is gaiting, permitting him to exert proper propulsion. Taking this as a model, you then assess the hind legs of your dog and groom to accentuate those points.

I start at the pad. Nails should be kept as short as possible. (When specializing a dog, I clip the nails each week.) I trim the hair away between the pads. I then stand the dog to trim the hair that touches the top of the grooming table. I don’t pull this hair because that takes away from the look of full furnishings on the foot. Alternatively, if the hair on the leg and top of the foot is long and light, you may pull it out -- by hand or by using the Pedicure File -- to encourage the growth of new hair or to stimulate growth.
that has already begun.

When I am preparing leg furnishings for show, I use the stripper on a regular basis in the beginning. I use it lightly but consistently, until the furnishings start to appear full or gain body. I also start to rub the legs and the feet with Aveeno moisturizer. I massage the legs for about two or three minutes each, rubbing the lotion into the feet and between the toes. I push the hair between the toes up toward the top of the foot; extra length of this hair can be used to make the top of the foot appear more rounded. This is useful if your dog has a longer, more pointed foot. I then comb or brush the hair up the leg, hand pulling any long hairs that interfere with my silhouette.

I create the line by setting up the hind leg. I pull hair off the top of the hock first to accentuate angulation. I then make a line from the hock to the table. I trim a straight line -- just hair tips. I want this area below the hock to look as full as possible. When your dog is leggy, you can make the dog appear shorter of leg by rounding that line and growing more hair on the front of the leg. When you look at your dog from the rear, you want to see two straight legs. The toes should not point out. If they do -- slightly, without the dog being cow hocked -- work with extra hair and keep the sides of the feet short. Grow the hair fuller at the base of the foot and brush it to the sides. It is much easier to show a leggy or lightly furnished dog outdoors. A well-conformed dog will take grass and poor lies in stride, and the grass will make him appear shorter and better furnished. Usually, a judge will initially ask you to move your dog, so he can see if there is a moving fault. Then, if he sees something, he has some idea where to look once he gets the dog on the table. In the classes, if you have a dog in good coat that can move, the judge is not going to penalize you because your furnishings are a little sparse.

Tail

Facing the rear of the dog, hold the tail thumb on top with fingers around the bottom. In your left hand, use the McClellan coarse stripping knife (yellow-handled). Clean around the sides of the tail by lightly stripping towards you, with the hair. You want to have a clean look in front of the tail. When the tail is up, it should appear as a reversed capital L. The horizontal base of the L represents the top line of the lower back. In order to have a clean line, grasp the tail in your left hand. Again, facing the dog’s rear, start to rake towards you approximately three inches above the tail. Your objective is to flatten that area. Then hand strip lightly along the tail sides. The top of the tail occasionally has extra hair, which detracts from the L shape. Thin any fullness there. Hand pick the longer hairs near the tip. Hand pull or slightly blunt with thinning shears the end hairs. (I only will use the thinners when the dog has sparse tail hair and pulling it would make his tail look weak and patchy.) The tail should look like a Christmas tree with a bluish tip. Never groom a tail too closely; it will look manufactured and unnatural in the context of the body.

Conclusion

I have been grooming dogs for the show ring for seventeen years. I have tried to provide in this article a straightforward distillation of that experience. I feel that isolating the different areas on the dog would make the piece easier to assimilate.

I have used the names of certain grooming tools. This only reflects my personal taste and is not meant to recommend specific manufacturers.

Professionals seldom use a blade of any kind. Their secrets include consistency, time, repetition, patience, knowledge and -- above all -- an eye. The talented professional can take any Norwich and give you back an improved picture. He is able immediately to identify faults and/or strong points and has the skill and experience to groom to conceal those drawbacks or to enhance those strengths.

In this regard, I am indebted to Peter Green, who was kind enough to read through this article, identifying faults and/or strong points, and deleting or adding to the original text where he felt the piece needed clarification. The editorial grooming is his, and he has given you back an improved version.

The best advice I can give to those of you who are embarking on your grooming career is to go slowly. Work a little, then put the dog down and watch it move. Have someone move the dog toward you and away. Your dog will appreciate occasional breaks as well, and you will come back to the animal fresh.

Learn to do as much with your fingers as you can. It is the best way.

Good Luck!
Beta-carotene: What is it?
Beta-carotene falls within the vitamin category, and more specifically is part of the family of carotenoids. Carotenoids are the dark red pigments that provide the orange or deep yellow color to many plants and vegetables such as carrots or corn. Even green vegetables contain carotenoids, but their color is masked by the deep green color of chlorophyll. (3) It is one of the most important and plentiful carotenoids. However, beta-carotene is not produced by the dog's body, so therefore, it must be ingested either through eating plant material, or by ingesting a supplement or diet that has beta-carotene in it.

Until recently, there was little understood about how important beta-carotene was on the immune system in dogs. In fact, it wasn’t even known if beta-carotene was absorbed well by the intestinal tract of dogs. However, it has been shown that dogs that have supplemented beta-carotene in their diets have significant levels of beta-carotene absorbed and utilized by the body. And, dogs that were provided with beta-carotene in their food or as a supplement over many days had better absorption than those dogs supplemented only once. (1)

Beta-Carotene: Building Block for a Strong Immune System
Beta-carotene can be an extremely important building block for the immune system. Both the first and secondary lines of defenses can be improved by providing beta-carotene to our dog’s diet.

The first line of defense is positively affected by beta-carotene through the production of Vitamin A. Dogs that ingest beta-carotene have an enzyme in their intestine that metabolizes beta-carotene into an active form of vitamin A. Thus, beta-carotene can be called a “precursor” to vitamin A. Vitamin A is extremely important for the formation and maintenance of healthy skin and membranes that line the respiratory or intestinal tracts of the dog. (3) Remember, the skin and lining of the respiratory or intestinal tract are important for the first line of defense of the immune system. Thus, without the benefits of beta-carotene, the immune system may be compromised.

As a boost for the secondary lines of defense of the immune system, beta-carotene also has been proven to significantly increase B and T cell functions and abilities. As one example, dogs that were fed certain levels of beta-carotene had significantly higher levels of antibodies produced compared with the control dogs with no beta-carotene in their food. (1) There are many other secondary immune responses that were very beneficial to the dogs with beta-carotene added to their diet as well.

We all know there are many situations in which our dogs may encounter stressful situations. If we, as owners, can improve the immune system of our dogs while under stress, our dogs will benefit greatly. Beta-carotene recently has been shown to be very important for well-functioning first and secondary lines of defense of the immune system. It may be one of the “keys” to helping our dogs stay healthy and competitive longer.

I have collected some examples of lighter episodes: “Very tense, tight shake. Unable to walk, although might try, but have extended steps and are uncoordinated, sometimes going down on rear legs or front. They do not fall over, paw, froth, or get sick. Eyes appear wide and frightened.” (From correspondence.) “Jaw could be lifted open. There was rapid heartbeat and a body tenseness. No loss of bladder control or defecation. The seizure lasts a minute or two. These light seizures occur in the middle of sleep, walking from one room to another, in the middle of an argument -- in the middle of a meal. There is no boundary for time or place of seizure incident.”

These are accepted overviews about seizures: Dogs do not suffer during a seizure -- their actions are involuntary; a dog should not be moved during a seizure, except to ensure his safety; dogs on anticonvulsant medication enjoy a normal life expectancy; once stabilized, some dogs can be weaned off their medication; and, if a seizure lasts longer than ten minutes, call your veterinarian immediately.

Are Seizures Genetic?

There was a very good article, most aptly entitled “Inheritance and Idiopathic Canine Epilepsy”, by James G. Cunningham, DVM, PhD and George C. Farnbach, VMD, PhD, published in the July/August 1988 Volume of the Journal of the American Animal Hospital Association. The article described a study that bred selectively using epileptic stock and traced the incidence of the disease through four generations, watching where the epilepsy most commonly occurred. The authors concluded “genetic mechanisms play an important role in transmission of some and possibly most cases of idiopathic canine epilepsy, although the mechanism for this inheritance is not yet known. Until the genetic mechanisms involved are more clearly delineated, the authors recommend that veterinarians advise owners of dogs with idiopathic epilepsy that 1) the idiopathic form of canine epilepsy may have a major genetic component; 2) it generally is impossible without considerably more test breedings to determine the degree of involvement of either dam or sire in producing epileptic offspring; 3) it is unwise to breed an epileptic dog or repeat the breeding that produced it and it is unwise also to breed its littermates.”

From my discussions with several veterinarians, owners, and breeders, here are some thoughts that could perhaps benefit Norwich breeding in the future: If a dog has a seizure of any kind, take him to the vet for a complete physical examination, including a blood test. Try to determine if it was a disease-related seizure. And be sure to check for toxins around the house, and have them analyzed as well. A dog may have epilepsy for genetic reasons or may have acquired it through a disease -- which could itself be a genetic problem. As a veterinarian told me, “Epilepsy is a diagnosis of elimination -- elimination of all other causes of the seizures.” If you can find no external reason for the seizures and they continue, you have idiopathic epilepsy, and you must look for its origin to your genetic input. If you discover suspect seizures in a bitch or dog you are breeding or in its background, do some serious checking into previous breedings and litters. Don’t take chances. The heartbeat occurs when unknowledgeable breeders fail to recognize danger signs, fail to heed the concerns reflected to them by worried owners, and continue to breed.
Since some cases of epilepsy do not arise until the dog is five years of age, it is understandable that a caring breeder could unwittingly produce several litters from an afflicted dog, with no idea that the litters were potentially affected. But it is another thing for a breeder who has been made aware of the problem to make his own determinations on the nature of the problem -- and continue to breed the dog.

What Medications are Given for Seizures?

Dr. Parker states “Dogs with seizures due to diseases other than epilepsy are given specific treatment for their disease. They may also be given anti-convulsants.” Epileptic dogs are treated with anticonvulsants. But Dr. Parker further cautions, “if the seizures are mild and occur singly and less frequently than one every two months, the side effects of the drug may outweigh the benefits of seizure control.” The owner and the veterinarian must determine the risk/benefit component of anticonvulsant treatment. In fact, only 60 to 70 percent of known cases of epilepsy are controlled. The following drugs are used in the control of canine epilepsy: Diphenyl hydantoin (Dilantin); primidone (Primidone, Mylepsin); and phenobarbital and diazepam (Valium). And, less commonly; Valproic acid (Depakene); pimemadione (Paradione); ethosuximide (Zarontin)and carbamazepine (Tegratol). Dr. Parker also mentions progesterone’s and even indicates that acupuncture has been used. The article goes on to list some of the side effects, temporary or long-term, that can accompany treatment with these anti-convulsant drugs: Drowsiness; clumsiness; hyper-excitability; loss of appetite; increased thirst; and excessive urination.

What is Scottie Cramp?

Scottie cramp is described in an article entitled “Cramp’ in Norwich” by Jean Gledhill, appearing in the April 1985 Dog World Breed Notes, which I paraphrase here: The bitch began to manifest symptoms at two and one-half, after her first litter, by going stiff in her hindquarters. She remained conscious, but the muscles in her thighs were knotted and tight. I massaged the affected muscles until the rigidity dissipated; it took about six minutes. She seemed perfectly normal afterward. Several attacks occurred over the next few months, and, after particularly severe attacks, she would vomit. The veterinarian recommended that Vitamin E and selenium be added to her diet. I fed her the Vitamin E and seaweed meal, which contains selenium, and the incidents subsided: One attack in the next ten months, one further attack eleven months after that, and then clear.

Ms Gledhill equates “Scottie cramp” to human cramping and explains it as the body’s inability to deal with the build-up of lactic acid in the muscles. The human body gets rid of the acid by sweating or urinating, allowing more oxygen to get to the muscles. The author notes, “It has been suggested that Vitamin E helps by being a transport system for lactic acid’s removal via urine and that the selenium acts as a catalyst for the removal process.” Jean Gledhill maintains a catalogue of dogs with this disorder. I have found no other documentation of this disorder in Norwich.

I hope that, in some small way, this article has given you some information about seizures. I feel very strongly that we have it, visibly and less visibly, in many lines of our breeding -- old and new. In fact, no one can say with certainty that one is entirely clear of the problem. The evidence strongly suggests that idiopathic seizures are transferred genetically. And the solution is diligently to breed away from any animal with a history or lineage containing suspicious seizures. Line breeding is an accepted practice, and, if done carefully, has produced fabulous Norwich. If, however, there are seizures in the background on either side, I feel that line breeding multiplies the incidence of genetic carry through. One might end up with an aesthetically perfect dog, but in the process, pass along to the unsuspecting breeder or pet owner the untold miseries of idiopathic epilepsy -- a serious abuse to the future of the breed. I have tried to approach the broad issue of epilepsy in Norwich fairly and objectively. I hope that the publication of what I have learned to date will help to enlighten all of us who care about the breed.

Save That Litter:
A Case Study
by Leandra Little
Littlefield Norwich Terriers

(Printed in Dog News, May 2005)

Breeding Norwich Terriers has often been described as difficult. There are few puppies in a litter and there seems at least anecdotally to be a high miss and loss rate. After losing a litter (one puppy reabsorbed and the other still born) in 2003, several friends came to my aid with suggestions and possible causes. We tested for thyroid and found that while on the low end it was normal. Another friend mentioned that the cause might be related to progesterone levels - a new one on me. So I decided to look into it and perhaps prevent a recurrence of the last terrible experience.

Progesterone is a hormone produced in the ovaries after ovulation. It is essential for maintaining the reproductive organs during pregnancy. It's worth quoting Dr. Phyllis Holst, author of the excellent Canine Reproduction A Breeder's Guide: “Following ovulation, the ovaries take over another extremely important function. The follicular lining cells proliferate and change both in their structure and function. Each empty follicle becomes a new gland, the corpus luteum (CL), which means 'yellow body.' Each CL is a solid mass of cells that produce mainly progesterone, the hormone that maintains pregnancy.” The technical name for low progesterone levels is “hypoluteoicidism.”

I didn’t know this when I decided to breed my Ch. Littlefield Razzle Dazzle again but I did know about testing for progesterone to make sure the day was right for the breeding. So a few days after Razzi came into heat we started to make trips to the vet to find the optimum date. The magic day was November 15th when fresh chilled semen was overnighted from Texas and she was inseminated.

According to the noted canine reproduction vet, Dr. Robert Van Hutchison, the day the progesterone rises above 5 nanograms IS the day of ovulation. Once the egg is ovulated it is an immature egg that takes 48 hours to mature. There follows 36 hours where the egg is fertilizable. So if using fresh semen, the bitch can be bred the day of, or the day after she ovulates.

Razzi was tested at the outset three times. The results were 0.1 on November 10th; 0.3 on the 11th and 3.7 on the 13th. We assumed it went to 5 by the next day, a Sunday. The call went out and we received the collection and accomplished the insemination on Tuesday the 16th. We repeated the breeding on the 18th but think that the Tuesday breeding was the one that counted.

A month went by and she began to show some signs of pregnancy but I resisted taking her in for an ultrasound fearing that placing her on her back for the test might endanger the developing fetuses. At about the same time, my friend Magda Omansky’s bitch went into premature labor and her litter of three was lost. I began to hyperventilate about Razzi.

On December 23rd we took her in to Dr. Kurt Blaicher, my New Jersey vet for an ultrasound to ascertain pregnancy. I only allowed this procedure to be done in the standing position. Nevertheless he found “two strong heartbeats.” At the same time
I asked him to draw blood so that we could monitor her progesterone levels.

Dr. Van Hutchison advises that once the bitch ovulates, the progesterone rises to a range of 15-40 nanograms and is maintained there for the next two months. But a bitch only needs 2.5 nanograms to maintain the pregnancy. But that is the minimum.

Razzi’s result at this time was 17.5, a bit on the low side but certainly within the level to maintain the pregnancy. A week later we returned to take another reading. The result - 13.8. We’d calculated the due date as January 15th - so still over two weeks to go and the levels were going down.

Since we’d planned a trip to Florida for the first two weeks in January, we packed up all the dogs including Razzi and made the drive to Sarasota arriving on New Year’s Eve. Before leaving, I contacted friends and fellow breeders along the route to ask for their recommendations for emergency veterinarians along the way - just in case.

Once ensconced I asked Norfolk breeder Heidi Evans for help in finding a local veterinarian. She scanned the yellow pages and found one not too far from our condo. Nancy Gerhardt, DVM at Kindness Animal Clinic was enlisted in the effort. I made an appointment and arrived with Razzi and two articles on the importance of progesterone; one an interview with Dr. Hutch (quoted here) and the other a technical article from IVIS (International Veterinary Information Service) titled Use of Supplemental Progesterone in Management of Canine Pregnancy by M.V. Root Kustritz, Department of Small Animal Clinical Sciences, College of Veterinary Medicine, at the University of Minnesota.

When arriving in her exam room, Dr. Gerhardt announced, “Well I’m a spay neuter kind of vet, but I’ll do what I can.”

I replied, “Dr. Gerhardt, I’m going to challenge you on this one.” She drew the blood on January 6th. The result came back that afternoon - an ominous 4.0.

I immediately called Dr. Van Hutchison’s clinic seeking help. His associate, Dr. Greenfield called me back that evening and said “it’s falling too fast and too soon.” Go ahead and supplement with progesterone. My vet in New Jersey was a bit more conservative and said, “Test again tomorrow.” (Friday). Since administering progesterone if it’s not needed can cause birth defects in bitch puppies I decided to test again. I called Dr. Gerhardt and we made an appointment. She pulled the blood Friday morning.

She did more than that though, she called Dr. Greenfield to consult and to get the proper dosage. She also made calls to find out where we could obtain progesterone. She found a compounding pharmacy in Sarasota.

Saturday morning I was on the phone to my friend Heidi, updating her on the situation. Dr. Gerhardt actually broke into the phone call with the help of an operator to tell me Razzi’s level the day before had been at the critical 2.5. She ordered me to grab Rizzi, jump in the car, pick up the hormone at Family Pharmacy of Sarasota and get back to her office immediately. I did as I was told...and am lucky the police weren’t being over-vigilant that Saturday morning.

I dashed into the pharmacy, blurted out the emergency story, grabbed the vial (Dr. G. had phoned in the order) and raced back to Kindness Animal Clinic. Nancy (by now we were on a first-name basis), left her patient and we ran back to her OR where she administered the dose.

Once given, the progesterone will maintain the pregnancy for three days. We still had a week to go. On Monday we returned to the clinic for another blood test. The result came back at 3.3. We went ahead and gave another dose on Tuesday morning on our way out of Sarasota to make the trip home. She slept comfortably on the dog bed in the back seat all the way. We arrived Wednesday night, January 12th and settled back to wait. Progesterone must not be administered after the 60th day of pregnancy as levels fall just prior to delivery - a signal to the body that all systems are “go” for launch.

Sure enough, her temperature dropped Saturday, the 15th, on the exact due date. We took her in for the planned section and two beautiful 8 ounce girls arrived that afternoon.

Will I breed Razzi again? Her first litter at age three was problem free and both are champions. The daughter from that first litter finished at Chicago, came home, was bred and free-whelped four beautiful puppies in May 2004.

Could it be age related? Razzi will be six this year, not too old but not young either. Is it genetic? If so? How so? Fellow Norwich breeder, Magda Omansky has done some research on this and states that sires are not exempt from the genetic equation as they contribute genetic material to the developing fetuses and that there is “cross placental” dna/genetic information that is exchanged with the mother. A different stud was used in 2003 when we lost the litter so I do not think they are responsible in this case.

Others have had experience where the progesterone was monitored and the litter was still lost. According to Dr. Holst “it is perfectly natural throughout the animal kingdom for a percentage of pregnancies to fail and for a percentage of conceptuses to fail to survive.” But testing for progesterone and supplementing at the crucial time worked for me - and for Razzi. I am convinced that if this pregnancy had not been monitored we would have lost the litter. The best part has been looking at her face as she nurses those tiny babies. Pure joy.

TOP PRODUCING SIRES OF NORWICH TERRIER CHAMPIONS

This information has been intended as a reference for breeders, and as a help in determining the producing sire and dam lines for the past twenty-five years.

The records herein have been taken from the January 1979 to the February 2005 Gazettes. Despite the best intentions, errors and omissions will creep in. Please accept our apologies for any that may have occurred, be assured that none are intentional. Your calling attention to any errors or omissions will be appreciated for further updating of this work.

Foreign titles are not included in the AKC Awards records in most cases, so the English, Australian or other sires and dams of American champions are not shown with a title, nor with a registration or stud book number.

Listed below are the top producing sires with FIFTEEN or more champions (in this time period) followed by ALL champions from 1979 to December 2004 (to and through the February 2005 Gazette.) This would be the top 24 sires in the breed.

The last section of the book includes top producing dams of SEVEN or more champions, followed by ALL champions again, listed in alphabetical order of their dams name for easier reference. (The top 21 dams)

In the time period mentioned here, the most outstanding producer of show champions was CH. ROYAL ROCK DON OF CHIDLEY with a total of 93 champion get to his credit.

The Norwich Terriers who have sired fifteen or more champions include (in alphabetical order):

It is known that some Norwich Terrier dams could have been Kennel Review (or other systems) Top Producing Bitches for a particular year, inasmuch as they produced three or more champions for the year.

Since we are covering twenty-five years of history, it was felt that bitches in the "Top Producing" category would have a total of seven or more champion produce in this time period. This would be the top producing 20 dams in the breed.

From 1979 to 2004, the bitch with the largest number of champions is a tie between CH. BARNSTABLE SUPERSTITION and CH. TODWIL'S BURNT CORK with a total of 16 champion produce.

The Norwich Terrier dams that have produced seven or more champions are:
